Tamarack Resort Rolls Back Boundless Pass Pricing to Lowest Price in 20 Years to Celebrate 20th Anniversary Season

TAMARACK, Idaho (February 21, 2024)— Tamarack Resort is rolling back the cost of the Boundless All-Season Pass for the 2024/2025 season to its lowest season pass pricing in twenty years as part of its 20th anniversary celebration. Family passes will be available for $949 and adult passes for $399 during the celebratory pricing period from February 23 through March 3.

When lifts started spinning in December 2004, Tamarack became the first new ski resort to open in decades. Since then, the resort has established itself as a true all-season destination and America’s only ski, golf and lake resort featuring a vibrant alpine-style village along with vacation rentals and real estate.

This summer, guests can also expect the return of the acclaimed Osprey Meadows Championship Golf Course and when the snow flies, skiers and snowboarders will enjoy even more amenities amid the slopes with the grand opening of the Mid-Mountain Lodge at the top of Tamarack Express.

“Since that inaugural season, we’ve doubled our named runs, expanded our skiable terrain to more than 1,500 acres, added lifts and brought one of the newest alpine villages in the West to life,” said Tamarack President Scott Turlington. “We’re nostalgic for those early, scrappy days and want to invite loyal passholders and new-to-Tamarack guests to celebrate with us this year with some of the lowest prices we’ve ever offered on our most popular Boundless Passes.”

Over the past two decades, Tamarack has adjusted its pass pricing to the market and industry and was the first resort in Idaho to provide a true all-season pass.
